

Join a local movement to help the bees

Become One of 1,001

1001 Pollinator Gardens is an initiative to encourage, support, and document the commitment of 1,001 people in Western Mass to grow gardens that offer food and shelter to pollinators.

These gardens are examples in our neighborhoods and towns of what humans can do to:

- provide sustaining habitat for pollinator species
- help shift human gardening culture towards more ecologically beneficial practices based on our knowledge of the needs of pollinators and other wildlife species.

To learn more or to register your garden:

www.1001pollinatorgardens.org or contact

Amy Pulley (413) 634-5659

wingandaprayernursery@gmail.com

More news, resources, and local events at www.WMassBees.org

Wild for Pollinators

wmassbees.org

Peggy MacLeod Western Mass Pollinator Networks

A tiny new non-profit group has become a movement in western Mass to certify 1,001 pollinator gardens and build pathways for pollinators.