

Barbara Sha Cox, Indiana Volunteer Extraordinaire

Barbara Sha Cox has been a volunteer with SRAP for over ten years. Barbara is a retired nurse and the founder of Indiana CAFO Watch, a grassroots citizens group that searches for and reports and abuse of laws by factory farms. Barbara first became an activist when her fourth-generation family farm was threatened by a large-scale mega dairy. Barbara's fight to keep a factory farm away from her 240-acre family farm has resulted in Barbara traveling the state helping other rural Indiana people in similar situations. Barbara has worked tirelessly in this role despite facing a number of personal setbacks. Recently, Barbara learned her husband of many years has an aggressive form of colon cancer and she has been tirelessly at his side all while continuing her role as a volunteer with SRAP and helping communities facing factory farms. We are so grateful to have such an amazing volunteer like Barbara with us.
